We will divide the project into two parts.

Filter List

This half of the team will be responsible for finding and combining filter lists in the most efficient way they can come up with. The following members will be working on this half of the project:

- Andrew
- Trey

Extension

This half of the team will be working on the extension itself, including a simple user interface and implementing the filter list to block ads. The following members will be working on this half of the project:

- Brandon
- Chase

Collaboration

As a team, we will use a shared, private GitHub repository with several branches to share and maintain our codebase. We plan on having weekly or biweekly meetings to check in on our project's progress and see if either team needs extra assistance.
